Unit 3 Chemical Pathways

ISBN 978-1-921128-14-1

This book covers two areas of study – CHEMICAL ANALYSIS and ORGANIC CHEMICAL PATHWAYS.

Topics

■ Volumetric analysis ■ Gravimetric analysis ■ Stoichiometry of solids, liquids and gases ■ Redox equations and oxidation numbers ■ Principles and applications of instrumental chromatography including Thin Layer Chromatography, High Pressure Liquid Chromatography and Gas Chromatography ■ Principles and applications of spectroscopic analysis including Atomic Absorption Spectroscopy, Infra Red Spectroscopy, Mass Spectroscopy, Nuclear Magnetic Resonance Spectroscopy, Visible and Ultra Violet Spectroscopy ■ Structure and systematic naming of various organic chemistry families ■ Common reactions of organic compounds ■ Selected organic reaction pathways ■ The structure of proteins and their function as enzymes ■ Biochemical fuels ■ DNA and forensic analysis ■ Proteins as markers for disease ■ Organic molecules in the design and synthesis of medicines

Unit 4 Chemistry at Work

ISBN 978-1-921128-15-8

This book covers two areas of study – INDUSTRIAL CHEMISTRY and SUPPLYING AND USING ENERGY.

Topics

■ Rate of reaction using collision theory ■ Energy profile diagrams ■ Homogenous equilibria with the equilibrium law and Le Chatelier's Principle ■ pH as a measure of strength of acids and bases ■ Principles of waste management in the chemical industry ■ The industrial production of either ammonia, ethene, sulfuric acid or nitric acid ■ Comparison of different energy sources ■ Applications of calorimetry ■ The use of the electrochemical series and its limitations ■ The construction and operation of simple galvanic primary and secondary cells, fuel cells and simple electrolytic cells ■ The application of Faradays Laws in electrochemistry
